TIRE QUESTION

It used to be when a man went into his garage to take out the car, he'd glance around to see that none of the tires were flat. Now, he's more interested in seeing if the tires are there.

Weather Is A Weapon

Hitler actually did have a real and deadly "secret weapon" when he launched his career of crime against the world.

Only it wasn't an explosive or super-gun or new poison gas. It was an uncannily accurate means of making long-range weather forecasts that would hold up through a campaign in which weather might be decisive.

That forecasting system, according to Charles F. Sarles, staff expert of the U. S. Weather Bureau, explains the "luck" of ideal weather conditions attending Hitler's major moves—the clear dry weather for the mechanized push into Poland, the Low Countries and France; low visibility when the Nazis drove into Norway, and the heavy fog through which Nazi warships recently escaped from a French port.

Taking the cue from the Germans, U. S. technicians are developing a long-distance forecasting method that will match and probably excel the German system, Sarles told the American Geophysical Union last week.

In no other war has military success depended so much on accurate forecasts of rain, wind, clouds and fog for weeks ahead. Along with mechanized blitzkrieg and air power, weather is a modern weapon.

U.S. Steel Subsidiary Speeding Production

B. F. Harris, president of Oil Well Supply Company, a subsidiary of United States Steel Corporation, announced this week that the company has completed Army orders for 1,000,000 anti-aircraft projectiles 62 days ahead of schedule. Speeding its production schedules, the company will continue the manufacture of these shells as well as numerous other items essential to the war effort.

Among other Army and Navy articles under production at Oil Well Supply Company plants are breech and firing mechanisms; tank rings; ship and airplane castings; diesel driven centrifugal pumps; housings for large Navy guns; and the machining of larger size shells.

When the first World War plant produces its fruit within 15 months after the root-stock is planted; after this it is cut down, for it will not bear again.
